MR. DUNCAN TO BE POSTMASTER

His Name Sent to the United States Senate for Confirmation. Selected Over a Large Field of Candidates.

The name of Charles S. Duncan as Gettysburg's next postmaster was on Friday sent to the Senate for confirmation, substantiating the rumor current earlier in the week that he would receive Congressman Brodbeck's endorsement.

The news of Mr. Duncan's candidacy for the position came as somewhat of a surprise several weeks ago as, before that time, it was not known that he was in the field. He was selected over a large number of candidates, many of whom had been active in circulating petitions and presenting their claims for some months.

Two weeks ago there was an unconfirmed report that Mr. Duncan's candidacy had received the necessary support to place him in charge of Gettysburg's post office. This took more definite form last Saturday when he acknowledged that he had secured the endorsement of the congressman from this district and on Friday his name was sent to the Senate.

Mr. Duncan will doubtless prove an acceptable choice to Gettysburg people generally and all patrons of the office who may be assured of a business-like administration.

His acceptance of the postmaster-ship will not, it is understood, interfere with his attending to his legal practice.

GIRL KILLED ON RAILROAD

Fatal Accident on the Reading when Girl, Going to Work, Failed to Hear Oncoming Train Due to Wraps about her Head.

As she was on her way to work in the hosiery mill at Boiling Springs Friday morning, Miss Martha Hope, 18 years old, of near that town, was struck by the engine of an extra freight train on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad and instantly killed.

Her body was found lying beside the right of way of the road about 7 o'clock by the crew of a regular morning freight train. Her forehead on the right side was broken in but otherwise she appeared to be little injured. The body had not been thrown more than a few feet by the force of the impact.

No one, as far as can be ascertained, saw the accident, so that the real facts will doubtless remain unknown. The girl had her face and head covered in an effort to ward off the cold and, it is believed, failed to see or hear the approaching train. She has been traveling this road for some time past and knew the hour that trains might be expected. The fact that a special train was sent along the line probably caused her death, for although it was still dark at the time, there is a view for a considerable distance in either direction and, if she had been expecting a train, would doubtless have seen it.

Miss Hope left her home which is about a mile and a half below Boiling Springs at about 6.15 o'clock. The accident occurred about one half mile below the town.

As soon as her body was found the parents and Coroner Deardoff, of Cumberland County, were notified. The latter viewed the remains and the scene of the accident and gave his decision that the death was accidental and absolved the company from the blame.

The girl is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hope, two brothers, and two sisters.

GOOD SHOW

Biglerville Amateurs Make Hit in Home Talent Play.

One of the best home talent plays ever produced in the North End of the county was given in Thomas Brothers Hall Friday evening when Biglerville's amateurs presented "Home Ties." This was the fourth number of the lecture course and the hall would have been crowded had the night been favorable.

About 250 people were present. One automobile and many teams had considerable trouble in getting home through the storm.

The following was the cast of characters each member of which was worthy of special mention.

Martin Winn, Orie Nary; Leonard Everett, Lloyd Garretson; Harold Vincent Paul Diehl; Josiah Tizzard, Sewell Kapp; Helen Winn, Ruth Reed; Alma Wayne, Pearl Rice; Aunt Melissa, Alice Longsdorf; Mrs. Poplin, Harriet Garretson; Lindy Jane, Myrtle Watkins.

HOMES ENTERED

Jacob Goodenberger and William A. Scott, Esq., are Robbed.

While the family of Jacob Goodenberger, ex-director of the poor of Adams County, were peacefully slumbering Wednesday night, at their home near Hartman's mill along the Abbotstown pike, some thief opened a window and crawling in went to Mr. Goodenberger's desk and took a pocket-book therefrom, containing $12.50. The familiarity of the thief with the premises leads Mr. Goodenberger to suspect the identity of the culprit.

William A. Scott's home, in Hamilton township, was entered this week while Mr. Scott was in Gettysburg and a number of his possessions removed. His losses include an overcoat, pair of shoes, razor, shot gun, cartridges, two loaves of bread and a knife.

MORE DECISIONS AT THE REVIVAL

Number of Those who Have Taken Stand during Present Services in St. James Church now Forty Three. Impressive Jail Meeting

At the close of Friday evening's service in St. James Lutheran church, five more had reached decisions to lead better lives bringing the total for the meetings, up to this time, to forty three. Of the five who were added after Thursday night three announced their decision in church Friday evening, two before the sermon and one afterward. One signed a decision card at her home and another was added at the jail service in the afternoon.

This latter service was specially impressive. The corridor was filled with speakers and singers and there was some inspiring music. Mr. and Mrs. Miller sang the John Erbel song and a number of the revival hymns were used. There were several short addresses and, when decisions were asked, all but one of the inmates of the jail arose. There are six prisoners now in Sheriff Thompson's care and four of these had made decisions at the first jail meeting.

The cottage prayer meetings are increasing greatly in interest and attendance. Five are held daily and as many as seventy have attended one of these meetings where services of song and prayer, with brief addresses, are held. The shop meetings at the furniture factories are a feature of the work and the revival is going on in interest, enthusiasm and good results. Many, who have not yet reached decisions, have been touched by the services and it is believed the number will be greatly increased before the close of the services.

At Friday night's service in the church the singing was again most inspiring, a number of the old Gospel hymns being used in addition to some of the newer ones. Two more homes had been connected during the day with telephone arrangement and, while the storm was beating outside, three families remained in their homes and enjoyed the service being held at church.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Charles Leonard, of Selingsgrove, who took for his text "And these shall go away into everlasting punishment but the righteous into life eternal," Matthew 25:46. He spoke most earnestly and held the attention of the large audience, the size of which was little affected by the blizzard-like weather conditions that prevailed outside.

There will be service this evening at 7.30. The sermon will be preached by Dr. Jacob A. Clutz, former pastor of the church. Rev. Joseph B. Baker will preach at the services Sunday morning at 10.30 and in the evening at seven o'clock, and will also address a men's meeting in the chapel at three o'clock in the afternoon. Prof. J. W. Shannon will speak to a woman's meeting in the church proper at the same hour.

HERD OF DEER

Ten Deer Appear Near Graeffenburg Inn, Exciting Guests.

The guests of Graeffenburg Inn are so accustomed to seeing bunches of three and five deer that they observe them without special emotion, but when ten come whacking at the back door, pawing up the tennis court they take notice. There were ten of various sizes Thursday afternoon walking about and grazing in the broken field northeast of the inn, not fifty yards away. They were picking up broken cornhusks and other provender. A mighty antlered stag led them out of the wood and down to the lower slopes.

FRIEDMAN SAYS NO CHARGES YET

Superintendent of Carlisle Indian School Says he Has Received no Formal Notification of the Charges against him.

Superintendent Friedman, of the Carlisle Indian School, now under suspension, who is involved in charges now under consideration by the Indian office, was asked what charges had been made.

The suspended superintendent said that he himself and so far as he knows, no one else of the official staff at the Indian school, had received a copy of charges. He said that the published statement from Washington to this effect was inaccurate and that he had no way of telling what he was charged with except by inference and newspaper reports.

The rumor that emanated from Washington to the effect that Musical Director Claude M. Stauffer had beaten a girl student with a club, was answered by Stauffer's friends, in his absence from Carlisle. It is said that there was a serious infraction of discipline in the school and that the matron asked that the girl involved be spanked.

The bandmaster was asked by the matron to perform the task, his friends say, and in the presence of the head matron, the school principal and the outing manager, the punishment was administered. A piece of wood, a quarter of an inch by three inches, broken from a soap box, was used and the punishment was very light, according to the witnesses. The girl wrote Mr. Stauffer a letter after the spanking, expressing sorrow for her misdeed and thanking him for what he had done, declaring herself that she deserved it, it is said.

Stauffer had been a loyal supporter of the Friedman administration. His friends say that he had a stormy interview with Inspector J. Linnen. No other Indian school official is known to have received charges.

BARNES CONVERTED

Barnes Says He is Glad to Live to Repent.

When William Barnes was put under arrest by Corporal Curious A. Davies, of the state police, at Glen Furnace, after his brother, Abe, was shot, February 4, he begged that officer to "kill him," to "put a bullet through his head."

When the officer reached the lock-up in Waynesboro with his prisoner, Barnes said to him: "I'm glad you didn't shoot me. Now I've got a chance to repent."

It is now told in Chambersburg that Barnes has professed conversion in the jail. Adjutant William Price, of the Salvation Army, preaches frequently in the jail. After his bi-weekly discourse, this week, Barnes seemed much affected and asked the Salvation army man to come to his cell. His request was complied with and the two had a long talk.

As the result of the talk Barnes expressed regret for his past sins and repented. He expressed conversion and declared he was sincere in his declaration to live a different life.

Biglerville Readers Missed Times Friday through no Fault of Ours.

The bundle of Times for our Biglerville subscribers missed them on Friday evening due to the failure of a clerk at the Gettysburg post office to tag the pouch containing the papers and the failure of the mail clerk on the afternoon train to investigate the destination of the pouch in question. The papers, as a result, went all the way to Baltimore and arrived back in Gettysburg this morning.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S

Favorite Song by Sir Arthur Sullivan

The favorite song of Queen Victoria was composed by Sir Arthur Seymour Sullivan, who was afterward knighted by Her Majesty. This favorite song of England and England's Queen was "The Lost Chord," which Sir Arthur composed at the bedside of a dying brother. He has written many popular songs, but is best known as the composer of "H. M. S. Pinafore," "The Pirates of Penzance," "Patience," and "The Mikado," and was associated in his work with William S. Gilbert as his librettist. His popular hymns include "Heaven is my Home," and "Onward, Christian Soldiers," which find their place in nearly all collections of sacred music. Arthur Sullivan died in London in 1900, and left behind him a fame for musical composition that will live as long as the heart responds to tender and sweet emotions.

"The Lost Chord" and other world famous songs by Sullivan are printed in "Heart Songs"—a volume of world-wide music now being offered by this paper to its readers. Read the terms upon which it may be had, published in the coupon elsewhere in today's paper.

ITALIANS DEPORT AMERICAN WOMAN

Send Her From Country, While
"Soul mate" Hides.

ACCUSES HIM OF THEFT

Mrs. Louise Garland, Widow, Strives to Hold Dying Affections of Englishman.

Rome, Feb. 14. — An international romance has been abruptly ended by the Italian government, which separated two "soul mates" by deporting the woman, an American, from the kingdom. She was a Washington resident, her name being Mrs. Louise Garland.

Mrs. Garland, not yet forty years old, a widow of many attractions, and until recently with $8000 to her credit with a trust company of Washington, met in America young Jack Heyne, an Englishman, formerly an army officer.
He became infatuated with the fascinating widow at a dance in New York and they toured Europe together in the belief that they were two soul mates.

Heyne, however, began to tire of his partner, but she held him with a fervent affection. Matters were complicated by the fact that the young man had a protectress in America, whose interest seems to be purely maternal, yet of whose affection Mrs. Garland was intensely jealous. Hence, when Heyne notified her of his desire to recross the Atlantic Mrs. Garland put every obstacle in his way.

At Naples she charged him with stealing a diamond hatpin, a present from him. He was arrested just before his steamship sailed. The next day the hatpin was found and Heyne was released.

They traveled together to Rome and stayed at the Pensione Pacifico. Then for some reason Mrs. Garland's reminiscences from Washington ceased.

The Italian authorities had been informed of Mrs. Garland's and her companion's connection with certain incidents at Monte Carlo and other pleasure resorts on the Riviera, and hence, when Mrs. Garland attempted other measures in Rome to detain her affinity by charging him with stealing her luggage and railway tickets, the hostile attitude of the police compelled her to apply to the American consul general in Rome for assistance.

Some Consul Bywater already knew something of her and had her forbly ejected after half an hour's interview.

She then went to Ambassador Page to complain. The embassy personnel had been warned of her intentions, however, and she was not received there.

Mr. Page and the embassy secretaries will say nothing of Mrs. Garland, but the fact remains that she gave them considerable trouble until the authorities intervened.

Now Heyne is in Naples hiding from his lady's attentions, pending the departure of his steamship, while she was last heard of outside the Italian frontier on the Riviera.

Ohio Collector Mails Income
Blanks to Oil King.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 14. — Harry Weiss, internal revenue collector for northern Ohio, has mailed to John D.
Rockefeller at Tarrytown, N. Y., tax blanks for the filing of the oil king's income for federal taxation under the income tax law.

Weiss said he would proceed to collect about $2,250,000 income tax from Rockefeller unless he pays the money to the revenue collector in the Tarrytown district.

"It hasn't been decided whether Rockefeller's legal home is Ohio or New York, so I've sent him blanks to be on the safe side," said Weiss. "He will be kept on my list until I am officially informed that he is not a resident of Ohio."

It is understood that Rockefeller already has received blanks from the collector in New York state. "I have been informed," said Weiss, "that Mr.
Rockefeller earns more than $40,000, 000 a year on his stocks. Every man who earns more than $500,000 a year must pay 6 per cent on such surplus."

MINER KILLED IN RIOT

Deputy Sheriff Wounded in Shooting
Affray in West Virginia.

Colliers, W. Va., Feb. 14. — James Moore, a striking miner, was killed, and Harry Lucas, a deputy sheriff, was perhaps fatally wounded in a riot at the mines of the West Virginia &
Pittsburgh Coal company, near here.

Moore, who had been living with other strikers in a tent near the mine since last September, when the strike was declared, is alleged to have attacked Lucas. Other strikers were nearby and the shooting became general.

Sheriff Patterson was summoned from Wellsburg, the county seat, and pounced a strong force of deputies around the mine. Lucas, strike breakers and strikers were arrested pending the result of the inquiry.

he had investigated such rumors, and as a result Thomas Finn, twenty-two of Identification.

Paris, Feb. 14.—Alphonse Bertillon, inventor of the noted system for criminal identification which made his name known through the world, died here, aged sixty-one years.

Bertillon's title was "director of the anthropometric department of the Paris police." He had been ill for a long time, suffering from anæmia, complicated with other maladies. He underwent an operation in October.

Bertillon was a distinguished anthropologist and was the author of many works on ethnography, anthro-pometry and criminal photography.

The system of identification devised by Alphonse Bertillon for the Paris police is now in use in all parts of the world. Originally intended for work solely among criminals, it has come into use in a variety of other activities, where it is necessary to establish the absolute identification of persons.
Comparatively recently the finger print system, a development of his earlier anthropometric system, has been used as a final test of identification of depositors in a number of the American banks.

TRAIN HITS SLEIGHING PARTY

One Person Killed and Fifty Injured
While Returning From Dance.

Kingston, N. Y., Feb. 14.—One person was killed and fifty persons were injured when a freight train on the Wallkill Valley railroad struck a big sleigh in which they were returning from a dance at Binnewater, five miles south of Kingston. Three of the injured may die.

The dance ended at a late hour and in a temperature several degrees below zero the dancers got into the sleigh and started home. The accident occurred half a mile from the dance hall. The approach of the crossing is hidden by steep banks on both sides of the track, and the dancers, muffled in blankets and furs, did not hear the locomotive or see it until their sleigh was struck.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Announcement came from the bedside of Senator Bacon that his temperature for the first time since his illness had reached normal. His physicians have abandoned plans for an operation.

WOMAN SUING GORE RESTS CASE

Counsel Fails to Call an Important Witness.

IS NEEDED IN REBUTTAL

Blind Senator's Attorneys Allege the Present Suit Is Case of Political Intrigue.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 14. — Counsel for Mrs. Minnie Bond, who is suing Senator Thomas P. Gore for $50,000 damage as the result of an alleged assault in a Washington hotel, rested their case.

James R. Jacobs, who was expected to be one of the principal witnesses, was not called. He will be used in rebuttal.

I. E. Robertson, ex-law partner of Ross Lillard, chief of counsel for the plaintiff, was recalled at a witness.
He admitted enmity toward the senator because, the witness asserted, Gore had promised to use his influence in behalf of H. A. Rogers, of Oklahoma, mentioned as a candidate for the post of secretary of the interior, but had failed to do so.

Robertson was called as an eyewitness to indignities which Mrs. Bond alleges were offered her by Senator Gore in Washington last March, and on which her suit is based.

The witness gave practically the same testimony as Kirby Fitzpatrick, who preceded him, relating that he witnessed the alleged attack in a Washington hotel.

Robertson, Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Bond and Dr. J. H. Earp, another witness for the plaintiff, all declared that they were in Washington on political missions to obtain appointments to federal positions and all failed. It is the contention of Senator Gore's attorneys that the present suit is a result of a political intrigue.

Shortly after Robertson took the stand to continue his testimony he was excused temporarily and Deputy Sheriff Ezell was called. The witness testified that the senator had evaded service.

Sheriff Binion was called and testified that he took the papers and went to see Gore, but failed to get him.
Late at night, however, he said he caught sight of the senator in the hotel and served the papers.

Efforts were made to impeach the testimony of Dr. J. H. Earp and T. E.
Robertson. Earp was asked if he had not told Dr. D. M. Beatty, of Oklahoma City, that they were going to "get Gore." He denied making such a statement. He was asked if he had not told a man named Cope, of El Reno, that the case was all a "frame-up."
This Earp also denied.

When Robertson was recalled he was asked if he, Jacobs and J. F. Mc-Murray had not met in McMurray's room soon after the incident in Washington and discussed the best method of placing the affair before the public, if they had not planned to prosecute Gore, and failing in that to place
the matter before the Ministerial Alliance of Oklahoma City.

"Nothing of the kind ever happened," replied Robertson.

NO MORE BABES BY POST

But Department Rules That Queen
Bees Can Be Carried.

Washington, Feb. 14.—G. W. Mc-Rill, postmaster at Stratford, Okla., wrote Postmaster General Burleson
the following:

"J. B. Denton, of this place, asks if he can have a child two and one-half years old sent by parcel post from Twin Falls, Idaho, to this place. Finding nothing in the parcel post regulations covering such a case, I am referring him to the department."

The postmaster general replied, saying that the only living creatures that may be carried by parcel post in the future are queen bees.

Several weeks ago a child was sent from Oklahoma to an eastern city by parcel post.

Prefers Jail to Paying Tax.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 14.—Declaring that he would stay in jail the rest of his life, if necessary, Horace Hervey was imprisoned because he refused to pay his poll tax. He is secretary of an organization opposed to the payment of poll tax and is a pronounced Socialist. Under the law Hervey is un-bailable. An application will be made by his friends for a writ of habeas corpus.

Evers Signs With Boston.

New York, Feb. 14.—Johnny Evers signed a contract to play for four years with the Boston National League club at a salary of $10,000 a year and a $20,000 bonus. The contract provides that he shall not be traded or sold without his consent and contained a clause that he shall receive a bonus if the Boston club finishes the season in first, second or third place.

Freighter Sinks; Eight Perish.

London, Feb. 14.—Eight men were lost by the sinking of the freight steamship My Own, which went down in the English channel off Shoreham.
The captain alone was saved. Life savers hurrying to the foundering vessel found the captain clinging to a rigging and took him off. They could find no trace of the crew.

A Story of the Great Blizzard of 1888

By CHARLES CRAIG

What a terrible storm was that which occurred in March, 1888! How the snow whirled! How deep it became! How many persons were caught, bewildered, and sank down within reach of safety, yet never arose alive!

During the day I, rebelling against remaining longer imprisoned, started out to walk to the village, a mile distant. How I got as far as I did I don't know, though I didn't get very far. Between my home and the town was an old brick house that had been built 150 years. It had been occupied till six months before, when the tenants left it, shutting it up with all the high post beds and other old-fashioned furniture. Seeing this house and realizing that I was battling a storm that was too much for me, I made for it. I climbed the fence—the snow would not admit of opening the gate—and after struggling over a hundred feet up to the porch sank down at the front door in a stupor.

Things were vague after that. I seemed to have forgotten that the house was unoccupied, and, making an effort, I pulled myself up to reach the brass knocker and rapped. The door was opened by a gentleman, and, strange to say, he wore the uniform of the Continental army. I saw many persons moving about in the rooms and heard the strains of music.

"Bad night, sir," said the gentleman. "Come in and warm yourself." "I certainly will," I replied. "I feel very queer. I am certainly benumbed." "Fortunately some hot punch is just being served. It is just what you require."

He put his arm through mine and supported me to a room with a sideboard in it on which was an enormous bowl, from which a negro was ladling out a steaming beverage. My conductor took one of the mugs and handed it to me. I put it to my lips, but somehow I couldn't taste anything. It was like drinking air.

"I shall be happy to present you to my friends," said the man who had admitted me. "We are having a dance here tonight in honor of the officers commanding the troops just arrived and who are to be quartered in the neighborhood."

All this seemed natural enough. It didn't strike me that there was anything remarkable about it. I was taken up and introduced to ladies with enormous wigs and queer cut dresses. I tried to say something, but somehow I couldn't talk. There were a lot of men in Continental uniform and a few in citizens' dress, the latter with a yard or more of white stuff wrapped around their throats, and ruffles standing out from their bosoms.

"A bad night for our boys at Valley Forge," remarked a tall man, who as I looked at him seemed to resolve himself into General Washington.

"I should say so," I replied. "I'm cold myself here in these warm rooms. What must be the condition of those fellows living in huts or tents without sufficient blankets?"

Our conversation was interrupted by the entrance of a young man, who approached Washington and whom the general received with marked favor.

"Who is that?" I asked of a guest.

"The Marquis de Lafayette." The next thing I remember was seeing the general dancing the minuet, and I wondered how he could be dancing when his troops were freezing, to say nothing of starving.

While he was engaged in the dance I heard a colored servant standing at the door announce in a loud voice: "General Arnold!"

I looked at the man who entered and recognized—from portraits I had seen—Benedict Arnold. He went straight up to Washington and tapped him on the shoulder. Washington turned, and the look of contempt and loathing on his face was terrible to see. While I was looking at it the view dissolved before me, and there was a blank. Then I was in a room in which Washington was talking and gestulating with an officer against whom he seemed to have a very bitter feeling. I asked who this man was and was informed that he was General Charles Lee, who deliberately disobeyed Washington's orders at the battle of Brandywine. There were high words between the two till Washington slapped Lee's face.

The sound of the slap dissolved into a voice that sounded in my ear: "Hello! Wake up!"

I was violently shaken and slowly came to a realizing sense that I was on the porch of the deserted house thoroughly benumbed. Two men were trying to arouse me. They shook me, hammered me, lifted me to my feet and held me there in spite of my desire to sink down again.

I had been at the door but a few minutes. Two men who had walked behind me saw me turn into the deserted house and, realizing that I would be unsafe to leave me there, had followed me on to the porch. As soon as they entered, I stored my circulation one of them found a loose window sash, which he opened, and we went inside. The roomers had matches, and we found several lamps, also enough wood to make a blaze in one of the big fireplaces. We were forced to remain in the house during the night and in the morning had a hard time getting anywhere else.

I never pass the house but I think of the strange scenes I dreamed while freezing.

Borrowing Trouble.

"Bilgins is a terrible man to hunt trouble." "What is worrying him now?" "He is worrying about the income tax he will have to pay if he ever gets an income big enough to be taxed."—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

A WILL AND A WAY.

How a Great Sculptor Insisted Upon Getting Recognition.

While still an unknown, struggling student, Carpeaux, the famous sculptor, determined to get his work and his name before the public, so he sent a bas-relief that he had just finished to the Salon in the hope of gaining the notice of Napoleon III.

The subject he had chosen was "The Surrender of Abd el Kader to Napoleon III." He labored so hard over the work that he fell ill. He lay on a sickbed in the hospital when the news came that the Salon jury had accepted the bas-relief and would hang it at the approaching exhibition.

Unfortunately "Abd el Kader" was so poorly placed in the Salon that it entirely escaped the notice of public and emperor alike. Carpeaux was not discouraged. He was no sooner out of the hospital than he heard that the emperor was to visit some cities of northern France. Immediately he packed the cherished group and set off for Valenciennes. When the emperor entered the city hall of that town the bas-relief was exhibited at the entrance. Napoleon III. inquired about it. Unfortunately, Lemaire, the deputy from that district, was something of a sculptor himself and of a jealous disposition as well.

"Bah," he replied. "An uninteresting piece; the work of a student." The emperor passed on.

Undaunted, Carpeaux repeated his work and set off for Lille. There the collapse of the ballroom floor put a stop to the festivities and to the emperor's visit. Carpeaux started for Amiens; only to be arrested as a suspicious character and to have his precious bundle confiscated. He succeeded in proving his innocence and immediately hastened to the archbishop, who gave him permission to exhibit the group at the cathedral gates.

The emperor, deep in thought, entered the church without glancing to right or left. Again "Abd el Kader" had failed to attract Napoleon's attention. Carpeaux now decided to risk everything on one chance.

The next day the emperor, with his usual retinue, visited a local exhibition. They were examining some paintings when suddenly a young man pushed forward and halted before Napoleon. Pointing to the bas-relief of "Abd el Kader" he started to speak, but before he could utter a word he was surrounded and hustled to one side. A great hubbub arose, for every one thought that it was an attempt on the emperor's life. Finally, the young man, still struggling with his captors, managed to shout above the clamor, "I, Carpeaux, am the author of that group!" And again he pointed to the bas-relief. Gradually calm was restored, and Napoleon examined the work which the sculptor had so dramatically brought to his attention. He was delighted with it and purchased it on the spot. Carpeaux's reputation was finally established!—Youth's Companion.

Beating It In.

Dr. Brundis, in his lecture on Shakespeare's "Hamlet," said the interest of Shakespeare was to be found in story and not in psychology. Elizabethan art was intended for an audience who read but little. Like all early art, it was explained. The conditions were similar to those in the story of the old London stage manager, who said:

"If you want the British public to understand anything you must tell them what you are going to do next, that you are doing it, and, last, that you have done it," and he finished by saying, "Then they will perhaps understand you."—Pall Mall Gazette.

He Understood Human Nature.

The young doctor was buying furniture for the equipment of his new office. The eager salesman racked his brain to think of something else to sell him. He had sold almost everything that could go in an office, when he had a happy thought.

"Oh, yes, surely, I nearly forgot that!" he exclaimed. "You need a doorman."

"Not a new one," said the young doctor. "I'll get that at a second hand store. A worn one will be a much better advertisement for me."—Youth's Companion.

A Coal Fire Without Wood.

In the Woman's Home Companion a contributor tells as follows a new way to start the kitchen fire:

"Attach a rubber tube from the gas jet long enough to reach to the front of the range. Put a metal tip on the free end of the tube, light it and hold it under the grate already filled with coal. A steady flow of gas for a few minutes will start a good coal fire without using any kindling wood."

Circumstances Change.

Lawyer—You have an excellent case, sir. Client—But a friend of mine said he had an exactly similar case and you were the lawyer on the other side and you beat him. Lawyer—Yes, I remember that; but I will see that no such game is played this time.—Puck.

What She Wanted.

"I suppose," said the new saleswoman, "that you want a suit that will make you look attractive to your husband?" "Attractive to my husband!" echoed the shopper. "I should say not. He wouldn't know if I wore a suit ten years old. What I want is something that will make my next-door neighbor turn a pale pink green with envy."

"Simon Pure."

Simon Pure was the name of a character in a comedy entitled "A Bold Stroke for a Wife," by Mrs. Centlivre, an English actress and dramatist (1667-1723). The plot of the play turned on the identity of Simon Pure as against a person who assumed his name in courting a girl, thus emphasizing the real Simon Pure, which became a slang phrase.

HEART SONGS

Distribution Offer of

It is the most talked of event in our office for years. People everywhere are cutting out coupons—bringing them in crowds—and flooding the mails with orders.

If you were asked to name the song—words and music—that lay nearest the hearts of the English-speaking people all over the world—some 200 millions of them—what would you answer? Probably you'd have to give it up! Joe Mitchell Chapple, however the man whose brain first conceived "Heart Songs," could come nearer giving the correct answer than any other living man. He would tell you that the song was "Annie Laurie." The 20,000 votes he received from every country where the English speech prevails, lead him to say in his preface to that wonderful book: "Annie Laurie" is the one great international favorite ballad of all English-speaking people.

CHECKS, PLAIDS AND STRIPES
WILL BE STRONG THE COMING SEASON

The French shops and manufacturers are predicting that novelty fabrics, printed silks, crepes and wool materials will be very fashionable for early spring wear. Checks, plaids, stripes and conventional designs lead.

For young girls the double and triple tunic is still favored, and the contrasting vest lends an air of distinction to a frock. In 8124 a striped taffetas is used in black and white. The revers and collar are of black velvet, and the vest shows a tiny flower design.

Young girls' frocks must first of all be simple. The designs follow more or less the mode for older frocks, but in Paris especially dark colors and fuzzy models are not favored.

No. 8124 may be made for a girl of 16 with 5 yards of 36 inch material.

No. 8142 is an Oliver Twist suit for a boy of from 4 to 10 years. The shirt-waist is box-plaited and the straight little trousers close on the sides and are buttoned to the belt of the waist.

For a boy of 8 this design requires 2 1/4 yards of 36 inch serge, galetea or any other suitable material.

No. 8124—sizes 14 to 18.
No. 8142—sizes 4 to 10.
Each pattern 15 cents.

MINERS' DEMANDS ARE REJECTED

Operators Turn Down Request For Higher Pay.

Declare Business Does Not Justify Further Advance and Say Wages Should Be Reduced.

Philadelphia, Feb. 14.—The bituminous operators of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, who are in joint conference at the Bellevue-Stratford with representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, refused to grant the miners' demands for higher wages and other concessions.

Instead, the operators propose that the Cleveland agreement of 1912, which covers the four fields in question, and expires on April 1, be continued until 1918, with certain exceptions. The operators declare that the miners in these fields are now receiving the highest wages in the bituminous mining industry.

Business does not justify a further advance in the price of the coal, the operators assert, and they say that instead of increasing the wages of the miners, they should reduce them.

The miners' representatives voted to decline the operators' new proposition that the present contract be continued for four more years. A motion was then made by the operators that the miners' demands be considered in their order. This was carried.

The first demand of the miners was discussed for several hours. It calls for payment for bituminous on what is known as a "mine run" basis, meaning the coal as it comes from the collieries with the screenings and the slate in it.

No decision was reached on this demand.

The operators' report was no surprise, as it had been hinted since the conference opened on Tuesday that they would refuse to grant the demands.

The operators' statement begins with a review of the miners' demands for a five cents a ton increase at the basing point, a ten per cent increase on "dead work, yardage and day labor," and other concessions.

The following additional provisions and exceptions are proposed by the operators for a continuance of the Cleveland agreement of 1912:

"First—In entering into an agreement the rights of the employers and of the owner of property must be recognized, and these rights can only be modified or abridged by the specific terms in such agreement stipulated.

"Second—That the machine differential in Illinois and Indiana must be adjusted on a basis that will be more favorable to the operators of these states.

"Third—We demand that in any contract entered into the so-called check-off or collection of dues or assessments as the miners' union have heretofore levied or assessed and collected by the check-off system through the operators be discontinued.

"Fourth—The establishment of a court of last resort in which disputes which threaten the suspension of property shall be taken and by that means avoid the altogether too prevalent and notorious practice by the United Mine Workers' local and state bodies of enforcing settlement on their own terms in violation of the provisions of the agreement.

"Fifth—Provide penalties in the form of stipulated fines for violation of contracts by both parties when properties are closed in violation of the agreement.

"Sixth—For the protection of life and property the operators to employ such supervising officers as they may deem necessary shall not be dominated by the United Mine Workers in any respect."

Find Woman's Body In Well.

Harrison, N. J., Feb. 14.—The body of Margaret Fox, a boarding house keeper, was found head down in a well in her back yard. The fact that the cover of the well was closed led to the belief that her death was not accidental, and the coroner began an investigation.

ANTHONY CAMINETTI.

Immigration Commissioner Would Exclude Asiatics.

CAMINETTI SOUNDS ALARM ON JAPANESE

Declares the Whole Country is Being Over-Run.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Despite a general understanding that, in deference to the administration, Asiatic exclusion would not be agitated in congress pending diplomatic negotiations with Japan, Commissioner General Caminetti, of the immigration bureau, addressed a house committee urging early action "to check the menace of Asiatic immigration."

It had been announced that a meeting of the immigration committee would be confined rigidly to the subject of exclusion of Hindus. Mr. Caminetti's testimony came as a mild sensation.

"The Chinese and the Japanese," said Commissioner Caminetti, "have become so acclimated to the United States that Asiatic immigration is a serious menace to the entire country. The danger is greatest, of course, on the Pacific coast, but it is general as well. The Chinese have spread rapidly all over the country, and now the Japanese have become so acclimated that no part of the country is immune from the invasion."

"There can be no question but that the Japanese are coming in surreptitiously. The number of Japanese in the country has doubled in the last five or six years."

"New laws to prevent smuggling of immigrants are in urgent need. They should be passed at the present session of congress. Japanese, Chinese and Hindus cross the border illegally. I should like to see legislation on the question to check the menace to the Pacific coast and the whole country."

Commissioner Caminetti declared that in his opinion Asiatic exclusion legislation as embraced in the Raker bill and other measures before the committee, did not in any way violate existing treaties, even under the "most favored nation" clause.

TRIED SUICIDE IN SCHOOL

Teacher Saves Boy Who Tried to Chloroform Himself.

Corry, Pa., Feb. 14.—Fred Young, thirteen years old, tried to commit suicide in a room at the Fairview school.

Then the teacher rushed for aid and the boy was taken home. He will recover.

COOL NERVE OF A BRAVE BOY

Courage, Presence of Mind and a Lucky Knife Thrust Put Him Out of Peril. Curious Experience With a Vicious Man Eater in South Africa.

"Bulala" Taylor was one of the early settlers in the South African country that is now Matabeleland. He was the Chartered company's right hand man in those days, and the natives held him in wholesome respect. More than once he checked threatening disorder almost single handed, and whenever there was an uprising it was Bulala who took command of the white forces. But this is a story of Bulala junior, his son, a stocky little chip of the old block. It happened during one of the father's absences in the field. The youngster, left in charge of the family commissariat, spent two or three evenings each week in hunting—and with invincible success, for he was a "crack" shot, for all his youth.

One morning he was late—hours late. His mother became anxious and sent some Kaffirs out to take up his spoor. A little way out they met his horse flapping home, shivering and bleeding from many wounds.

The little baas must be killed! The Kaffirs were off along the track as fast as their feet would carry them. They wanted to save the boy's remains before the lion could eat them. They found the remains—of a leopard—and Bulala junior was calmly skinning them. A few feet away was the torn carcass of a freshly killed buck.

In awe the Kaffirs squatted round and with only the interjection of an occasional "Aough!" of admiration listened to the man-child's story.

"Insimbe," said Bulala junior, addressing himself to the oldest Kaffir, "you see the little dukterbok. I killed him, and he afterward saved my life. I thought the bok would be enough meat for all of us, and was slowly riding home. The ground was stony and the bush thick. The sun made me drowsy, and I wasn't careful to look about me. The horse had to pick his way. Just as he turned that big bush he almost ran over this leopard.

"I don't know which was most surprised, the horse or the leopard or I. The leopard had no time to turn back; he just had to spring. Before my eyes could open and close twice the leopard was on my horse's shoulders, trying to get a grip with his claws into the bok in front of me.

"The horse squealed and jumped, my gun flew out of my hands, and I found myself lying on my back on the ground. The little bok was lying across my stomach and legs, and the leopard was clawing and biting him frantically. I felt the blood from his body trickling through my shirt. Insimbe, I was frightened!

"From the corners of my eyes I saw my rifle, but it was too far off to reach. I just had to lie and play dead. If I moved a muscle and the leopard saw it he would give me one blow and finish me. Once or twice he looked up at me, and through my half closed eyes I saw the blood dripping from his jaws. It was lucky he was so hungry.

"At last his hunger wore off. Insimbe, he got to his feet, and came and smelled my face. Spots of thick blood dripped on to my cheeks. Oh, Insimbe, did you ever lie and let a snake's tongue lick your face? He breathed over me and smelled me carefully, then, satisfied I was dead, went back to his meal.

"For minutes which seemed like hours the leopard tore and chewed and as he became less hungry he became more particular. Two or three times he changed his position and each time I wanted to shout in fear. If I could only get at my hunting knife, which I could feel in my belt; but I dared not move.

"At last the beast began to drag the bok off me in order to get at its other side. As the bok slipped off I moved with it as part of it. And I grasped my knife. Even then I dared not get up. I just waited and waited. At last a chance came to make my one stab. I was desperate, and I took it. The leopard stood up to stretch himself and looked away from me.

"I jumped to my feet and made a blind slash at his hind quarters. Then I sprang away; not a bit too soon either. See my shirt, Insimbe?"

"He leaped on me and his fore paws grazed me and threw me on my face. When I scrambled up again and reached my rifle he had collapsed and was snapping and spitting like a cat. My wild cut had hamstringed his near hind leg.

"He only sat and snarled for an instant though; then the pain and anger made him mad and he rushed at me on three legs.

"I shot him. See how the hair is singed round the bullet hole, Insimbe?"—Youth's Companion.

Explained at Last.
"At your age," said young Robert's father, "I was compelled to wait and eat at the second table when we had company."

"Mother," the child remarked, "you have often wondered where dad got his table manners. Now we know."
